

Elementary, Middle Grades, and High School Economics programs delivered by volunteer role models.

Dear Friend,

You are invited to support an effort taking a stand for the kids in your community. I am preparing to participate in a Junior Achievement Bowl-A-Thon. Bowl-A-Thons help fund JA New York's business-based programs, which are provided to area schools at no cost.

Junior Achievement's purpose is to educate and inspire young people to value free enterprise and understand business and economics in order to improve the quality of their lives. Classroom volunteers stimulate the hearts and minds of kids to learn the "economics of life." They bring real-life experiences into the classroom, building a foundation for personal growth, development and achievement. As role models, volunteers encourage students to discover and fulfill their own potential. In New York City and Long Island, there are more than 5,000 classroom volunteers teaching Junior Achievement programs.

Please join me in supporting the vital work of Junior Achievement. Your commitment is more than a contribution; it recognizes the importance of education. Your support will touch the lives of 200,000 local students this year.

Please complete the bottom portion of this letter and return it to me with your tax-deductible contribution. Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

YES!
